At a glance

At the heart of Oasis is a deep-rooted commitment to inclusion and a desire to treat everyone equally respecting differences. These values are a natural outcome of Oasis' theology and as a Christ-centred organisation, Oasis believes that everyone is included, making a contribution and reaching their God-given potential. Oasis does not seek to impose these beliefs on anyone, but it is committed to ensuring that the behaviours which flow from those beliefs – equality, diversity and inclusion – are implemented in all that we do in Oasis.

Our ethos is a statement of who we are and it is an expression of our character. Rooted in the story and beliefs of Oasis, we describe our ethos through a particular set of values that inform and provide the lens on everything we do:

- A passion to include.
- A desire to treat people equally respecting differences.
- A commitment to healthy, open relationships.
- A deep sense of hope that things can change and be transformed.
- A sense of perseverance to keep going for the long haul.

It is these ethos values that we want to be known for and live by. It is these ethos values that also shape our policies. They are the organisational values we aspire to. We are committed to a model of inclusion, equality, healthy relationships, hope and perseverance throughout all the aspects of the life and culture of every Oasis Hub and community.

Checklist

- We will ensure that our approach to equality, diversity and inclusion (EDI) is in line with the Oasis ethos and values of inclusion, equality, healthy relationships, hope and perseverance.
- We will follow the way of the Oasis 9 Habits in the enacting all aspects of this policy.
- We will treat all pupils equally.
- We will celebrate diversity and strive to give children the confidence to be themselves and to be included in all aspects of academy life.
- We will seek to remove the barriers that stop some pupils from feeling safe and content in each of our academies.
- We will support and work with families and the community to promote a positive and healthy acceptance of EDI.
- We will ensure that the Oasis curriculum, in all phases, reflects the Oasis ethos and values of promoting equality and celebrating diversity and inclusion.

- ❑ We will ensure that there are pupil networks in place to enable children to share, to discuss and also to suggest further improvements to our approach in academies to EDI.
- ❑ We will use our data tracking system to record incidents of discriminatory behaviour. We will analyse these events. Any emerging patterns will give colleagues a clear focus for staff CPD and pupil guidance through effective curriculum design.
- ❑ We will use the framework for inclusion as outlined in The Oasis Way for inclusive practice to support our implementation of behaviour and pastoral care and SEND policies.
- ❑ We will use our principles of practice to guide our actions when implementing the EDI policy: relational culture, reflective practice and the 9 Habits.
- ❑ We will ensure that the Oasis approach to EDI is in line with the 2010 Equality Act and the 2014 DfE guidelines: “Equality Act 2010 in schools”.

In brief

This policy gives clear guidance about the Trust’s approaches to promoting equality, diversity and inclusion amongst the children in our multi academy trust. Our approach is The Oasis Way for Inclusive Practice, which is our framework for behaviour and pastoral care, SEND and personal development. The Oasis Way is enacted through our three principles of practice: relational culture, reflective practice and the 9 Habits.

Protected characteristics

The 2010 Equality Act introduced the term ‘protected characteristic’. It is unlawful for an academy to discriminate against a pupil or prospective pupil by treating them less favourably because of their:

- sex;
- race;
- disability;
- religion or belief;
- sexual orientation;
- gender reassignment; or
- pregnancy or maternity.

Unlawful behaviour

The Equality Act 2010 defines four kinds of unlawful behaviour:

- direct discrimination;
- indirect discrimination;
- harassment; and

- victimisation.

Direct discrimination occurs when one person treats another less favourably, because of a protected characteristic, than they treat – or would treat – other people.

Indirect discrimination occurs when a “provision, criterion or practice” is applied generally but has the effect of putting people with a particular protected characteristic at a disadvantage when compared to people without that characteristic.

Harassment has a specific legal definition in the Act - it is “unwanted conduct, related to a relevant protected characteristic, which has the purpose or effect of violating a person’s dignity or creating an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment for that person”.

Victimisation (including hate crime) occurs when a person is treated less favourably than they otherwise would have been because of something they have done (“a protected act”) in connection with the Act.

Curriculum

The Oasis curriculum is based on the three Cs: character, competence and community. Underpinning the Oasis curriculum are the following statements celebrating equality, diversity and inclusion (see Trust curriculum statement of intent):

- Our children live in a world where they accept themselves and others as individuals.
- Our children live in a world where they need a network of positive, healthy relationships and a network of support to thrive and excel.

We want our children and young people to seek to include others, be other-centred and celebrate difference.

Inclusion is at the heart of everything we do and is an essential part of the Oasis ethos, which is reflected in the OCL curriculum design and delivery. As demonstrated by our circle of inclusion, we believe that inclusion is for all and we take every opportunity to promote equality, diversity and inclusion.

Our curriculum is ambitious and is based on the latest research into how the brain and memory work, and this is adapted by teachers across the Trust so that it can be accessed by all children and young people (including those with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities) and is challenging for all (including the most able and high prior attainers).

School leaders take responsibility to contextualise the curriculum to reflect the local context including heritage and experience of our communities. We are champions for inclusion, illustrated by our engagement with the Stonewall programme, which teaches us to seek to understand and value all.

We also take every opportunity to highlight the importance of maintaining a healthy mind and body by focusing on important issues such as mental health, anti-bullying, healthy eating and the importance of regular physical exercise on overall well-being and provide and signpost high quality support for children and young people in these areas and develop their understanding of self-care.

Our metacognitive approach to character development through the 9 Habits enables pupils to develop this understanding at a deep level and know how to self-improve or seek additional support if necessary.

Our approach to E-safety means we ensure communicating effectively and relating appropriately to others online is explicitly covered.

The Oasis Way for Inclusive Practice

The Oasis Way for Inclusive Practice outlines our framework for behaviour and pastoral care, SEND and personal development. The Oasis Way is enacted through our three principles of practice: relational culture, reflective practice and the 9 Habits.

The Oasis Way aspires to redress inequality through a transformational approach that rewrites the story of what a truly inclusive education should look like in the 21st century. For children living in communities impacted by inequality, we seek to provide a trauma-responsive education system that takes a different approach.

The Oasis Way rewrites the story for our communities by:

- Actively building a sense of belonging for each child so that they feel secure in their place within the academy community.
- Prioritising the development of strong relationships with safe, trusted adults, underpinned by compassion and a belief in each child's capacity to thrive.
- Proactively teaching children the social and emotional skills they require to self-regulate, build resilience and develop outstanding character.
- Meeting children where they are at, providing reasonable adaptations to the curriculum where needed and supportive interventions to empower them to make progress academically, socially and emotionally.
- Taking a holistic, child-centred and strengths-based approach to supporting children with additional needs.

- Empowering children and their families to use their voices to contribute to the development of a flourishing academy culture.
- Supporting children to map their own pathways to the future, so they are given real choices in their lives.

The Oasis Way provides a framework for behaviour and pastoral care that centres intentional relationship building and a trauma-responsive ethos. Academies make use of toolkits to support the development of a relational culture and ethos that ensures belonging is built for every child, including those who are disadvantaged and have SEND.

We support all members of staff to develop the skills required to understand how to respond to children's emotions as effective co-regulators, and restorative processes to repair the harms caused when relationships are damaged. We take a team around the child approach to working together to ensure that the voices of children, families and external professionals are honoured in finding the right support and interventions to meet the needs of every child, so that exclusion remains a last resort.

The Oasis Way also provides a framework for Special Educational Needs and Disabilities that enacts a child-centred model and celebrates difference as an asset. Academies make use of toolkits to support the development of a clear graduated approach that ensures that SEND is a whole-school priority, so that all staff know the strengths and development areas of every child with additional needs, and how to meet these in their work. We focus strongly on Wave 1 Quality First Teaching to ensure that the progress and inclusion of students with SEND is prioritised in the planning and delivery of every lesson, every day, and ensure that each academy's SEND offer provides an appropriate and data-responsive range of interventions at Wave 2 and Wave 3 so that all children are given the support they need to succeed.

Assemblies

Assemblies should be of a broadly Christian nature, but leaders should ensure that students are aware of a range of other faiths. Academies will not be acting unlawfully if they do not provide an equivalent act of worship for other faiths.

Acts of worship should be inclusive and promote diversity and equality. Academies are also free to celebrate religious festivals and could not be claimed to be discriminating against students of other faiths if, for example, they put on a nativity play at Christmas or hold a celebration to mark other religious festivals such as Diwali or Eid. See Oasis Collective Worship Policy (on the Policy Portal via SharePoint).

Uniform

Students should wear the academy uniform, that has the aim of:

- Promoting a sense of pride within the academy.
- Engenders a feeling of community and belonging.
- Ensures students feel equal to their peers in terms of appearance.

To support inclusivity and equality amongst students, academy uniforms (including PE sports uniforms) should be explicitly gender neutral. For example, ensuring all students regardless of sex or gender can wear trousers as part of the academy uniform.

In cases of disability or need where uniform may cause harm or distress, student centred discussions should take place with the student, parent/carer and the academy to decide an appropriate uniform that will take into consideration: pride, community, happiness, belonging and equality amongst their peers.

The same approach should be undertaken where the pupil and/or parents raises religious issues that may impact on compliance with the academy uniform. There is no presumption that all requests can be accommodated, and it will be for academy Principals to justify why changes to the uniform policy cannot be made. A parent who is concerned about the academy's position may raise the matter through the complaints policy.

Student leadership titles

Academies must not use gendered pronouns when discussing student leadership positions within the academy. Student leadership positions within academies must have titles that are inclusive for all students from any background. Inclusive leadership titles could include:

- Head prefects/deputy prefects.
- Chair/Vice-Chair (of a student panel).
- Captain/Vice Captain (of a class or a student panel).
- Class/student president.

Single sex classes

OCL academies should generally avoid separating pupils by reference to their protected characteristics such as race, sex or faith. However, it is not necessarily unlawful to have some single sex classes or lessons in a mixed academy, provided that this does not give students in such classes an unfair advantage or disadvantage when compared to students of the other sex in other classes. The definition of what is lawful, for academy leaders, is set out below:

“If pupils are separated by sex (or by reference to any other protected characteristic) in specific classes, assemblies and/or for any extra-curricular activities, academy leaders and governors will be expected to justify to Ofsted and other inspectors, parents and the wider community the reasons for the separation. Where a statutory exception is relied upon, they will be expected to demonstrate that they have considered and documented why the exception applies. Outside the specific statutory exceptions, they should be in a position to demonstrate that separation does not give rise to any detriment because its effect is negligible.”

Single sex sport and PE

Sports and Physical Education is a key aspect of the national curriculum and the physical and mental well-being of young people. Physical Education develops pupils' competence and confidence to take part in a range of physical activities that become a central part of their lives, both in and out of school.

The Equality Act forbids discrimination in access to benefits, facilities and services. However, the Act does contain an exception which permits single sex sports. It applies to participation in any sport or game, or other activity of a competitive nature, where the physical strength, stamina or physique of the average woman (or girl) would put her at a disadvantage in competition with the average man (or boy). But while this exception might permit a mixed academy to have a boys only football team, the academy would still have to allow girls equal opportunities to participate in comparable sporting activities.

A pupil in transition has the same right to physical education as other young people, there should be reasonably few, if any, issues regarding participation within the sports usually associated with their identified gender choice.

Recognition should be given to the possibility of hormone-blockers, whether prescribed under the relevant court order or under parental consent, leading to lack of energy. This should be considered during PE lessons and reflected in any academic progress report.

Under section 195 of the Equalities Act; sports, games, or other activity of a competitive nature in circumstances where the physical strength, stamina, or physique of the average girl (or boy) would put her (or him) at a disadvantage in competition with the average boy (or girl) are exempt from Equality Act consideration. Therefore, it is possible to have unisex sports within the academy but consideration on a 1:1 basis should be given as to whether a transgender student could participate. E.g., a person born as a girl, but now identifies as a boy, with a passion and skill at football could play in a boys' team despite the exemption rule.

If a pupil is binding their chest, they should be monitored carefully during particularly physical activities and in hot weather. There is a chance that the binding could cause discomfort or even impair breathing. Short breaks from activity could be offered discreetly.

Bullying

Bullying of any kind is unacceptable in our academies, whether it is on-site or in off-site activities. If bullying or harassment does occur, all students should be able to tell a member of staff and know that incidents will be dealt with promptly and effectively.

Bullying can include:

- Emotional - being unfriendly, excluding, tormenting.
- Physical - pushing, kicking, hitting, punching or any use of violence.
- Racist - racial taunts, graffiti, gestures.
- Sexual - unwanted physical contact or sexually abusive comments.
- LGBTQ+ - because of, or focusing on, the issue of sexuality, including:
 - Gay, Trans or Bi-phobic - bullying based on prejudice or negative attitudes, views or beliefs about LGBTQ+ or trans people.
- Gender - bullying because of their gender or gender identity or because they may not be perceived to conform to typical gender norms.
- Faith - because of their religion.
- Social class – because of their background or social class.
- Ability - because of, or focusing on, learning and/ or physical disabilities.
- Verbal - name-calling, sarcasm, spreading rumours, teasing because of appearance etc.
- Cyber - all areas of internet use, such as e-mail and internet chat room misuse, mobile threats by text messaging, including aggravated sexting & calls and misuse of associated technology.

Discriminatory events must be recorded on Bromcom & CPOMS:

If bullying is reported, the Principal is responsible for ensuring that the details are recorded in Bromcom & CPOMS as presented to them, following the recording guidance outlined by OCL (see Anti-bullying Policy). This should be completed within 24 hours. Any safeguarding considerations will also be reported via CPOMS to fulfil the statutory duty of having separate and distinct safeguarding records. No promise of confidentiality can be given.

Following a reported incident staff will investigate using the following strategies, with the support of other members of staff, including the Designated Safeguarding Lead, as appropriate:

- Reflection – What has happened? Could it have been different?
- Resolution – How can we try to ensure this does not happen again?
- Reconciliation – How we put things right between those involved?

Transphobic bullying

The following guidance should be followed when there is a case of transphobic bullying. From the date of change the pupil should be known by their chosen name. Mistakes may occur and an apology should be made if this happens. For those staff and pupils who struggle with the concept of a name change, they may find it helpful in the first instance, to think of the new name as a 'nickname'.

However, it is the legal right of the pupil to be called by their new name and so compliance is expected even if the staff or pupil have moral, ethical or social objections. Changes should be made on Bromcom from the agreed change date, with the birth name archived, following agreement with a person holding parental responsibility.

Where staff continually ignore the choices of the pupil and do not use their chosen name (so called 'dead naming') or pronoun ('misgendering'), then this should be discussed with the line manager, which may include further diversity training being undertaken or other procedures being enacted under our various separate staffing procedures.

Refusing to use anyone's chosen name will be considered bullying. Any transphobic bullying should be dealt with immediately with appropriate sanctions applied to the bully, and support offered to the victim. Reporting of incident or bullying will be handled in the same way as any other incident, by the pupil to a trusted adult, and by staff via CPOMS.

Teaching and learning

Identifying groups of vulnerable children

We actively seek to remove the barriers to learning and participation that can hinder or exclude individual students or groups of students. This means that equality of opportunity must be a reality for all our students. We make this a reality through the attention we pay to the different individuals and groups of students within our academy including:

- girls and boys;
- disadvantaged status (based on DfE definition);
- minority ethnic and faith groups;
- students who have English as an additional language
- students who have SEND;
- more able children / high prior attaining children;
- students who are at risk of exclusion;
- travellers;
- asylum seekers or refugees;
- poor attenders;
- young carers;
- those students with emotional, health, behavioural or social difficulties;
- teenage mothers or fathers;
- students in particular danger of abusing drugs, alcohol and other substances;
- looked after children and those post-adoption; and
- students with different gender identities.

Key questions

We achieve educational inclusion by continually reviewing what we do, by asking ourselves the following questions:

- Do all our students achieve their best?
- Do we analyse the achievement of groups and sub-groups including children previously known to social care?
- Are there differences in the achievement of different groups of students?
- What are we doing for those students who we know are not achieving their best?
- Is there a racial or heteronormative bias present in our curriculum?
- Are our actions effective?
- Are we successful in promoting social harmony and preparing students to live in a diverse society?
- Are we promoting multilingualism, or alternative lifestyle choices through resources, books in the library, banners and displays?
- Are there any barriers for our students because of a protected characteristic?

Providing equality of learning opportunities

In line with our Trust Statement of Curriculum Intent, we aim to give all students the opportunity to succeed and reach the highest level of personal achievement. We analyse the attainment of different groups of students to ensure that all students are achieving as well as they can. We also make ongoing assessments of each student's progress. Assessment opportunities are built into every subject in the Oasis curriculum.

Teachers use this information when planning their lessons. It enables them to take into account the abilities of all their students.

We adapt the Oasis curriculum resources to make them accessible for all children. We use a range of catch-up strategies to ensure that children keep up with their peers.

The Trust monitors exclusions and attendance by academy, cohort, group and sub-group. Trends are regularly shared with Trustees, Trust leaders and Principals to ensure that there is equality of opportunity and inclusion for all groups of students. If trends are identified, academy leaders will present their actions to reduce inequality through their academy improvement plan or through their published Equality Objectives. Whole Trust trends are identified through the Trust self-evaluation process and will form part of the Trust One Plan.

We monitor all situations where a student is removed from the academy's roll so that there are clear reasons and a destination when a student leaves an OCL academy. Only the academy Principal can agree to a student being removed from the academy roll.

Members of the National Education Team have an overview of Attendance and Exclusions. Part of their role is to analyse student data to ensure that there is equality of opportunity and inclusion for all groups across the Trust.

Taking into account different teaching and learning styles

Teachers and support staff ensure that all students:

- feel secure and know that their contributions are valued;
- appreciate and value the differences they see in others;
- take responsibility for their own actions;
- are taught in groupings that allow them all to experience success;
- use materials that reflect a range of social and cultural backgrounds without stereotyping;
- have a common curriculum experience that allows for a range of different learning styles;
- have challenging targets that enable them to succeed; and
- participate fully regardless of disabilities or medical needs.

Additional Strategies

We seek to promote inclusion through a wide range of procedures and opportunities, including:

- Individual support plans for students.
- Mentoring for students.
- Life skills embedded in the curriculum (e.g. 9 habits and character education).
- Regular reflection on the impact of world events.
- Curriculum enrichment that will provide opportunities for further personal development – the Oasis entitlement.
- Close liaison with parents and carers.
- Training programmes for staff.
- Targeted intervention programmes to meet specific additional student need.
- Identification of vulnerable students and additional focus on their progress and well-being.
- Student support from external agency staff such as Behaviour Support and Educational Psychologists, Social Workers, Sensory Support Service, School Support Service and medical professionals.
- Multi-agency work and support – including early help intervention.
- Working with employers to bring the realities of the world of work to the students.
- First day absence contact.

Effective use of Pupil Premium funding

It is crucial that Principals and those responsible for Governance ensure that there is clear impact from the use of Pupil Premium funding to ensure that there is equality in outcomes for all groups of students. The funding must break down barriers to learning for those students identified as disadvantaged, so that their achievement matches that of all students nationally. Principals use the agreed template to assist with the evaluation of the impact of funding, as well as to plan for the forthcoming year.

Extra-curricular provision and trips

Trips and extra-curricular provision, including after school clubs, concerts, workshops, trips etc. are a valuable part of academy provision that can develop and promote individual strengths. Whole academy planning can include providing activities to celebrate diversity and meet the needs of different groups within the academy. Individual planning may include making provision to meet individual needs.

Student voice

Canvassing the views of students is a useful strategy to secure feedback from students who may be vulnerable and in danger of not being included. Feedback from surveys or target groups will provide foci for improvement or review. As a minimum, student voice should be used twice a year.

Looked after children

Academy leaders should designate a member of staff (the designated teacher) as having the responsibility to promote the educational achievement of looked-after children, including those aged between 16 and 18 who are registered students at the academy. The designated teacher must undertake appropriate training.

The DfE guidance outlines the role of the designated teacher in its policy: “The designated teacher for looked after and previously looked-after children” (2018).

Each local authority will have a Virtual School Head for Looked After Children to provide more strategic support or advice and information for both the child and the academy.

All looked-after children must have a care plan. The care plan must also include a health plan and a PEP. The PEP is a record of the child’s education and training. It should describe what needs to happen for a looked-after child to help them fulfil their potential. It will generally be a local authority responsibility to initiate the PEP, but a joint approach between local authority and academy will be required to ensure it remains updated and relevant to the student.

Looked-After children should have the same opportunities to create mementos of class milestones/plays/nativity etc., and so the academy should produce individual portrait pictures if the allocated social worker or carer is not able to do so.

Working with parents and carers

The academy aims to work in partnership with parents and carers using a range of approaches, including the development of Hub partnerships.

We also do this by:

- Working effectively with all other agencies supporting students and their parents.
- Giving parents and carers opportunities to play an active and valued role in their child’s education. For example, feedback from surveys or target groups will provide foci for improvement or review.
- Making parents and carers feel welcome.

- Encouraging parents and carers to inform the academy of any difficulties they perceive their child may be having or other needs the child may have which need addressing.
- Instilling confidence that the academy will listen and act appropriately.
- Focusing on the student's strengths as well as areas of additional need.
- Allowing parents and carers opportunities to discuss ways in which they and the academy can help their child.
- Agreeing targets for all students, in particular, those not making expected progress and, for some students identified as having special educational needs, involving parents in the drawing-up of, and monitoring progress against, these targets.
- Keeping parents and carers informed and giving support during assessment and any related decision-making process.
- Making parents and carers aware of the Parent Partnership services available as part of the Local Offer.
- Providing all information in an accessible way, including, where necessary, translated information for parents with English as an Additional Language.

Where a child is identified as a Young Carer, additional work should be undertaken to engage with the parents to ensure appropriate partnership working. In addition, the academy should ensure that the pupil is referred for a Young Carers assessment by social care and that all reasonable adjustments are made to ensure our pupil is safe, well and adequately supported in their role.

Alternative provision

Alternative provision (AP) may be considered to support a student's learning, progress, behaviour and/or welfare as a support structure to reintegrate a child back into mainstream provision. Our alternative provision guidance should be read alongside this document.

Exclusions

OCL academies use permanent exclusion as a last resort (see OCL Exclusions Policy). Leaders will use a range of proven strategies, to engage with the student in danger of permanent exclusion, in order to improve the individual's behaviour and/or attitude towards learning.

The OCL Behaviour for Learning Policy outlines the importance of key levers to securing effective student behaviour in our academies. Leaders analyse exclusions by different student groups including disadvantaged, SEND, students with mental health issues or those known or previously known to social care. The analysis will provide leaders with data that may result in changes being made to procedures and policies, including behaviour management strategies.

The Oasis Way supports all academies to develop a graduated approach to respond to individual needs. Academies make use of the framework to develop responsive, proactive interventions that reduce the risk of exclusion for all student groups, including disadvantaged and SEND.

Oasis Community Partnerships (OCP)

Oasis has developed Hub partnerships with the aim of reducing inequality so that students have the very best opportunities to become effective members of each of our communities. We are aware that some of our communities – despite bursting with potential – are so often characterised by inadequate and disjointed services, social isolation and a sense of disempowerment. For this reason, Oasis works in and with communities to develop a ‘community hub’ model, which is based around the following principles:

- Excellent and integrated services (youth and children’s work, community empowerment, education and housing).
- Local leadership and empowerment.
- A focus on the formation of character and spirituality.

Our Hub work focuses on six areas:

- adult education;
- youth and children’s work;
- community empowerment;
- advice and support services;
- health and wellbeing; and
- personal and spiritual formation.

Best Practice, highlighting the work of the Hubs across the Trust, is shared by Oasis Community Partnerships through documents such as their Annual Impact Report.

Responsibilities

We are all responsible for treating children equally, celebrating diversity and removing the barriers that stop some pupils from feeling safe and content in each of our academies.

Trust leaders and principals must ensure that the Oasis approach to EDI is in line with the 2010 Equality Act.

The Strategy and Innovation team will ensure that curriculum resources reflect the EDI policy and promote inclusion. Principals and senior leaders in academies will need to ensure that resources are adapted to meet the precise and varying needs of the children in each community.

Academy leadership teams will need to ensure that pupils are given the support that they need including support networks.

The data team will analyse discriminatory events and prepare reports for Trust leaders and Trustees accordingly.

Training requirements

Academies must ensure that those colleagues with responsibility for Inclusion undertake regular training. The Trust has primary and secondary national leads for student inclusion who develop CPD for inclusion with the support of the Learning and Development team. CPD can be accessed through the Learning Development Zone on SharePoint.

Statutory requirements

The Equality Act 2010 details some key equality provisions for the delivery of education and a duty for public bodies, such as OCL, to have due regard to the need to eliminate discrimination, advance equality of opportunity and foster good relationships between different groups (Public Sector Equality Duty). There are three key elements:

- Eliminate discrimination and other conduct that is prohibited by the Act.
- Advance equality of opportunity between people who share a protected characteristic and people who do not share it.
- Foster good relations across all characteristics - between people who share a protected characteristic and people who do not share it.

The Act also introduced the need for schools to make reasonable adjustments for disabled students.

Equality objectives

Academies have specific equality duties. These are:

- (a) to publish information to demonstrate how they are complying with the Public Sector Equality Duty; and
- (b) to prepare and publish equality objectives (see Appendix 2).

Academies were obliged to publish their initial information with effect from April 2012 (see Appendix 2) and their first set of objectives demonstrating how they complied with the general duty. Academies have to update the published information on their websites at least annually and to publish objectives at least once every four years.

The duty is not prescriptive as to how it is satisfied, so how one academy complies with the duty in relation to a decision it is making can look different for academies of different sizes and with different levels of resources. Therefore, in terms of publishing information and setting equality objectives, the requirements of the duty will not be the same for a one-form entry primary academy as they are for a large secondary academy.

Equality objectives – more detail

- Academies are free to choose the equality objectives that best suit their individual circumstances and contribute to the welfare of their students and the academy community.
- They should be used as a tool to help improve the academy experience of a range of different students.
- An academy should set as many objectives as it believes are appropriate to its size and circumstances.
- The objectives should fit the academy's needs and should be achievable.

Equality objectives may arise from analysis academies have carried out on their published data or other information, where they have identified an area where there is potential for improvement on equalities, or they may – for example - be set in anticipation of a change in local circumstances. Some examples might be:

- to increase participation by black students in after school activities;
- to reduce exclusion rates for black boys;
- to narrow the gap in performance of disabled students;
- to increase understanding between religious groups;
- to reduce the number of homo/bi/trans-phobic incidents;
- to raise attainment in English for boys;
- to encourage girls to consider non-stereotyped career options; and
- to anticipate the needs of incoming students from a new group, such as traveller students.

Equality objectives could be staff or community related too. For example, academies could develop an objective around the staff ethnicity better reflecting the diversity in the community.

Accessibility plans

Some students in our academies have disabilities. We are committed to meeting the needs of these students as we are to meeting the needs of all groups of students within our Trust. Under the requirements of the Equality Act 2010, all reasonable steps are taken to ensure that these students are not placed at a substantial disadvantage compared to non-disabled students i.e. making reasonable adjustments.

Accessibility plans are in place in each academy, as per the 2010 Equality Act.

These plans ensure that:

- Disabled students have full access to all areas of learning.
- Academy routines and the curriculum are reviewed to ensure that disabled students are not placed at a disadvantage.
- Academies will use specialist furniture and equipment for students with specific physical needs.
- Disabled students can take advantage of all that the academy has to offer.

Teachers modify their learning and teaching expectations as appropriate for students with disabilities. For example, they may be given additional time to complete certain activities or modify teaching materials. In their planning, teachers ensure that they give students with disabilities the opportunity to develop skills in practical aspects of the curriculum.

Students who are taught in our SEND Resource Bases have regular opportunities to integrate in the mainstream academy so that they have equality of opportunity in terms of provision and opportunity, including extra-curricular activities.

Teachers and support staff ensure that the work undertaken by disabled students:

- takes account of their pace of learning and the equipment they use;
- takes account of the effort and concentration needed in oral work or when, for example, using vision aids;
- is adapted or offers alternative activities in those subjects where students are unable to manipulate tools or equipment, or use certain types of materials;
- allows opportunities for them to take part in educational visits and other activities linked to their studies;
- includes approaches that allows hearing-impaired students to learn about sound in science and music, and visually impaired students both to learn about light in science and also to use visual resources and images both in art and design and in design and technology;

APPENDIX 1 Accessibility Plans

Legal Background

Under the Equality Act 2010 all academies must have an Accessibility Plan. Schools cannot lawfully discriminate against students because of protected characteristics including sex, race, disability, religion or belief, gender reassignment and sexual orientation.

This plan has been developed in conjunction with students, parents, staff and the Regional Director and will link to other academy planning documents.

The plan will be reviewed by the academy and monitored by the Regional Director.

The Monitoring and Standards Team will look at policy in to practice: how does the Accessibility Plan impact on the curriculum and classroom practice? How is the SENCO overseeing the implementation of the plan?

This Accessibility Plan sets out the proposals to increase access to education for disabled students:

1. Increasing the extent to which disabled students can participate in the academy curriculum, which includes teaching and learning and the wider curriculum of the academy, such as participation in after school clubs, leisure and cultural activities or academy visits.
2. Improving the environment of the academy to increase the extent to which disabled students can take advantage of education and associated services.
3. Improving the delivery of information to disabled students.

Aim	Current good practice Include established practice and practice under development	Objectives State short, medium and long-term objectives	Actions to be taken	Person responsible	Date to complete actions by	Success criteria
Increase access to the curriculum for students with a disability
Improve and maintain access to the physical environment
Improve the delivery of written information to students

APPENDIX 2 Equality Objectives

Example of Academy Equalities Analysis

Step 1 Get a group together

Bring together a group of people to work through the equality analysis process.

Step 2 Gather up your existing information

Collect together the information you already hold that relates to equalities. This can include data from the following (where applicable to your setting):

- Management information system (MIS).
- Local community profile.
- Setting population.
- Children's attainment/EYFS profile scores.
- Attendance and absences.
- Exclusions/withdrawals.
- Participation in other activities/opportunities provided at the setting.
- Prejudice-based bullying log.
- Staff profile.
- Trustee /management profile.

Step 3 Organise your data

You need to analyse your data according to all the protected characteristics that are set out in the Equality Act. It is unlikely that your setting will hold data on all of these characteristics. You are not required to collect any more data for this exercise. Instead, where there are gaps you need to consider whether you need more information. If so, you may choose to collect this data in future.

Step 4 Examine the data

Go through the data you have collected and note down any apparent inequalities between different groups. Do this systematically considering each of the different protected characteristics in turn (including any that you have added). Ask questions such as:

- How does boys' development compare with that of girls'?
- Is attendance at parents' forum meetings comparable for different ethnicities?
- Do disabled children/students participate in additional activities that you organise?
- Are certain groups of students over-represented in exclusions/withdrawals from setting?

- Do disabled adults participate in setting events? Who are the victims of bullying?
- Who are the perpetrators?
- Have there been any disability, homophobic or transphobic hate incidents?
- What about other prejudices, e.g. those based on race or religion?
- As you ask these questions, make a note of any potential issues regarding equality and also any examples of measures that you are already taking to address inequality. Use the equality audit document at the end of this tool kit.

Step 5 Compile a list of possible actions

Examine in turn each of the inequalities that you noted as you analysed your data (or external sources of data). Consider what these inequalities might indicate in terms of the three arms of the public sector equality duty.

When you are considering what steps to take, remember that it is quite lawful for settings to target measures that are designed to alleviate disadvantages experienced by, or to meet the particular needs of, children/students with particular protected characteristics. This is called Positive Action. It needs to be a proportionate way of achieving the relevant aim – for example providing special support for Traveller children or a project to engage specifically with families who are newly arrived in the country. If you are not sure of the answer to any of the questions note down what steps you could take to find out more. When you have considered all the inequalities in turn, you will then end up with a list of steps for action. Some may be quite straightforward and you can implement these at once. Others will require careful consideration and planning before they can be implemented. You will need to draw up priorities for action.

Step 6 Identify priorities for action

It is unlikely that you can make all the improvements you would like at once; therefore, you need to identify some realistic priorities for action that will have the maximum effect on equality in your setting. These priorities will become your equality objectives.

Equality objectives, by law, need to be specific and measurable, so it is not enough to simply identify a general priority. You will need to consider what outcome you want to achieve and how you will measure your progress towards this.

Step 7 Publish equality information and objectives

Step 8 Review your progress

The equality information you publish is required by law to be reviewed and updated annually and objectives need to be updated every four years. We recommend that you update your setting information and report on progress towards your objectives at least once a year. Additionally, whenever you are considering introducing a new policy or changing your practice, you need to consider how this will impact on equality.

Examples of Equality objectives

Objective 1

Undertake an analysis of recruitment data and trends with regard to race, gender and disability by July, and report on this to the staffing and pay sub-committee.

- Why we have chosen this objective:
- To achieve this objective, we plan to:
- Progress we are making towards this objective:

Objective 2

Have in place a reasonable adjustment agreement for all staff with disabilities by July, to meet their needs better and ensure that any disadvantages they experience are addressed.

- Why we have chosen this objective:
- To achieve this objective, we plan to:
- Progress we are making towards this objective:

Objective 3

Increase the representation of teachers from local black and minority ethnic communities over a 4-year period (from this July to July in 4 years' time), so that this group increases from 10% to 25% of the teaching workforce.

- Why we have chosen this objective:
- To achieve this objective, we plan to:
- Progress we are making towards this objective:

Objective 4

Train all members of staff involved in recruitment and selection on equal opportunities and non-discrimination by the beginning of the next academic year. Training evaluation data will show that 100% of those attending have a good understanding of the legal requirements.

- Why we have chosen this objective:
- To achieve this objective, we plan to:
- Progress we are making towards this objective:

Objective 5

Include the 'Two Ticks' positive about people with disabilities symbol on all job adverts, application forms and information by January of next year, to help address the under-representation of people with disabilities in the academy workforce.

- Why we have chosen this objective:
- To achieve this objective, we plan to:
- Progress we are making towards this objective:
